ANNOUNCEMENT.

HEREBY announce myself as candidate for County Superintendent of Free Schools at the election to be held on the 16th day of May, 1893. W. A. MARSH.

A new city charter has been prepared for Clarksburg and a petition has been sent to the legislature to grant a new charter. It will give the council of Clarksburg enlarged powers. We have not seen the proposed charter. We understand that it was prepared by two of our citizens and one of them is now at the capitol trying to engineer it through. We are not prepared to comment upon its provisions. A gentleman who is supposed to know about it informed us that it county court the control of the liquor question and give the entire management of this problem to the town council. Our people will want to know what the charter proposes before they will be ready to accept it. The legislature can certainly go no further than to leave its final adoption with the people of Clarksburg after they have an opportunity to know what it is. The petition that people signed did not ask for any particular charter-simply a new charter. If it is a better thing for the town than the one we now have. it will doubtless be approved by our citizens.

The TELEGRAM realizing the great love of so many West Vir ginians for James G. Blaine has neglected some other features of the paper this week in order to give a full account of his life and valued public services. On the inside of this paper will be found a history of the Blaine family beautifully illustrated.

Several prominet society ladies of Cattlettsburg were indicted last week for playing euchre for prizes.

It will be a surprise to many to learn that Dr. M. S. Holt has sold the Weston Republican to J. H. Edwards. What will Weston be without Holt in its journalistic realm? All must admit that the Doctor has lost but few opportunities for getting in a rap at the Democratic party. And just think! They say the Republican is to become Democratic.

He offers to give enough wire to fence a ten acre field if the party will sign a contract to take the agency for the wire. The contract is where the swindle comes in, for if read closely it turns out to be a promisary note for $150, after a few

JAMES G. BLAINE

The grandest figure in the group of great Americans of the modern age is numbered with the Nation's distinguished dead. The mighty soul of the "Plumed Knight" has ascended to the throne of the living God. From his early home on the Monongahela, where his life was as simple and pure as the sweet brier roses that grew in wild and luxuriant beauty upon the river heights, he went to New England. that nursery of American intellect and cradle of American patriotism, to develop into the foremost man of the World." There has been instituted no great public measure. no policy that tended to broaden the sphere of American influence since the days of reconstruction with which his name has not been identified. Our intellect is too sluggish, our imagination too frail to pay a fitting tribute to the life of this great civil leader.

Mr. Blaine loved West Virginia and took a deep interest in her industrial development. While he had friends everywhere, he was not insensible to the fact that the people of the Little Mountain State, were among his most ardent admirers.

His was a life consecrated upon the altar of uncompromising Americanism. He forged his way amid obstructions and difficulties to eminence, to affluence and to the fullest confidence of the American people, wholly by reason of his magnetic personality and sound judgment. He could not be seduced by love of power-was never weakened by flattery- never overcome by the pleadings of fascinating sophistry. In his towering diplomacy was mainly to take from the there was a combination of happy faculties. Like Gladstone he was a generator of enthusiasm. He combined the discernment and sagacity of Jefferson with the "tact of Seward and the dignity of Webster." Like Greeley, when he spoke to the common people they understood and applauded. To let him grasp your hand once was to make you his friend forever. Since Lincoln fell, fighting for human liberty, no other statesman has risen so high in the confinence of a great political party. Illustrious, knightly, chivalrous spirit, thouart now amid the visions and delights of eternity! Thy name and works are engraven deep on the altar of thy country's glory. Thy life is an inspiration before which the diplomatic intelligence of the age kneels in adoration and love.

The memory of our departed. great ones is a rich heritage of the American citizen. Their tombs are the silent shrines upon which "fires of patriotism" forever burn. From these last resting places tendrils of loyalty and love extend to the hearts of a greatful people. "Washington is at Mt. Vernon, Lincoln at Springfield, Grant at New York and Sherman at St. Louis, Jefferson is at Monticello and Adams at Quincy: Irving is at Sleepy Ho'low and Longfellow amid the inspirations of his muse at Cambridge:" Whittier is surrounded street. The roof of the prison fell in and many prisoners were by the scenes immortance of his pen at Amesbury. Garfield rests at Cleveland, and on Oak Hill, in sight of the capitol of the When a newspaper man asks | Nation he loved and to whose glories he added a grander lustre. eacefully sleeps James G. Wildeat Currency Indications.

Two bills providing for a system of State banks are pending in the Legislature of North Carolina. They were introduced in anticipation of the repeal of the prohibitory tax on State bank currency by the new Democratic federal government. Their purpose is to put the local banks in shape to floed the State, and perhaps its neighboring commonwealths, with wildcat notes at the earliest possible moment after the Democracy has redeemed its pledge to cut away all obstacles in the way of a return to the fluctuating currency of antebellum times. As movement to the same end was started in Georgia some time ago. It will undoubtedly become general throughout the South if the 10 per cent, tax on State bank issues is abolished by the incoming Congress. Free trade was not the only pernicious policy that triumphed in November.-N. V.

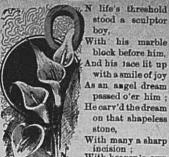

Mr. Charles Shuck, aged about eighty years, was burned to Providence, R. I., who died the death near Mt. Ida, Sewell dis drict, Fayette county. W. Va .. recently. Mr. Shuck had lived in a house by himself for several years. He was seen by one of his neighbors on Monday, January 16. On Tuesday afternoon some person went to the place and found the remains of Mr. Shuck lying on the hearth, his face badly burned, his clothes nearly all burned off, the fire out and the body frozen stiff. It is supposed that he fell into the fire and was unable to get out.

We consider this the prettiest poem that we have seen in looking over our exchanges this month.

It is next to impossible to teach a girl to whistle. When she gets her lips properly puckered, she looks so bewischingly tempting that the teacher ordinarily loses his head, and forgets the object of the lesson.
